Celebrating Clinics in Shoulder and Elbow milestones: a journey toward excellence in shoulder and elbow surgery

Hyung Bin Park

Editor-in-chief of Clinics in Shoulder and Elbow

Department of Orthopedic Surgery, Gyeongsang National University Changwon Hospital, Changwon, Korea

On behalf of our esteemed editorial board members, it is my distinct pleasure to share a momentous announcement with the cherished readers, dedicated authors, and diligent reviewers of Clinics in Shoulder and Elbow (CiSE). We are elated to announce that CiSE has been selected for inclusion in Clarivate Analytics' Emerging Sources Citation Index (ESCI) as of June 2023. This achievement marks a new milestone for CiSE, building on its indexing in PubMed Central (PMC) in December 2020, serving as a testament to our journal's journey toward excellence.

This accomplishment is the result of the dedicated efforts of both former and current editors, to whom we extend a heartfelt salute for their invaluable contributions. Above all, this achievement is owed to the hardworking authors who have entrusted CiSE with their pioneering research. This recognition serves as a bridge toward establishing CiSE as an influential international journal, shaping global discourse, practice, and the advancement of shoulder and elbow surgery.

Please look forward to CiSE's continued dedication to becoming a global journal that sparks innovation and fosters progress in the realm of shoulder and elbow surgery.

With warm regards,

Editor-in-Chief of Clinics in Shoulder and Elbow,
Hyung Bin Park
